CONGRESS DIRECTIVE ON REFUGEE PROBLEM

KRIPALANI RESIGNS?

A. I. C. C. To Elect New President

NEW DELHI, Nov. 14, (API): The Congress President, Acharya J. B. Kripalani has resigned his office and will ask the A.I.C.C. when it meets tomorrow to relieve him, according to persistent reports current in Delhi tonight.

Well-informed sources here express no surprise at this development as it is generally known that since April last the Congress President "has not been able to see eye to eye" with the Congress High Command in respect of the policy of the Government as well as the composition of the Ministry. Mr. Kripalani's resignation had been talked about on and off but it appears during the current session of the Working Committee he told his colleagues of his desire to resign.

His resignation, however, will not be "an issue" and it is understood that he will call upon the A.I.C.C. to accept his resignation and elect a successor.

Working Committee's Draft For A.I.C.C.

Protection To Minorities In Indian Union Assured

CALL TO PEOPLE TO HELP DEVELOP COUNTRY AS "DEMOCRATIC SECULAR STATE"

NEW DELHI, Nov. 14, (A.P.I.): The Congress Working Committee, which continued its discussions today, approved the two draft resolutions to be placed for the consideration of the All-India Congress Committee, which meets here on Nov. 15.

NATIONAL POLICY

One of the resolutions laid down the "national policy" which should be followed by the Government of India in dealing with the problems of relief and rehabilitation, caused by migrations of populations. The resolution suggests that migrations should be discouraged and conditions should be created both in the Indian Dominion and in Pakistan for minorities to live in peace and security and efforts should be made to enable the evacuees and refugees from either Dominion ultimately to return to their homes and to their occupations under conditions of safety and security. The resolution further emphasises that the minorities still residing in the Indian Dominion should be protected and their removal by force or creating circumstances which compel evacuation should be prevented.

SECULAR STATE

By the second resolution the Congress affords protection to all minorities in India which the Congress aimed at developing as "a Democratic Secular State" and calls upon "all Congressmen and the people of India to adhere strictly to this principle and not to allow themselves to be diverted into wrong channels by passion or prejudice."

TEXT OF RESOLUTIONS

The following is the full text of the first resolution:

The tragic events that have taken place in recent months in the Punjab and elsewhere have resulted in vast migrations of populations, and consequently in tremendous suffering to millions of people. New problems of relief and rehabilitation have arisen, of a magnitude which is unparalleled in history. The Government of India have faced these problems with courage and determination. Nevertheless, it is necessary to state clearly what the national policy should be in dealing with these problems.

The A.I.C.C. has looked with disfavour on this large-scale migration which brings suffering to millions, upsets the nation's economy and does

Indian Troops Capture Uri

Kashmir State Garrisons In Several Places Forced To Quit

NEW DELHI, Nov. 14 (API): Uri on the main Baramulla-Domel Road has been captured by Indian Army troops, says a Communique issued by the Ministry of Defence tonight.

Combing out operations to clear remnants of raiders in Srinagar Valley continues.

State forces garrisons surrounded by raiders south of Poonch are holding out. The situation of the garrisons in Mirpur is critical.

Aircraft of the R.I.A.F. attacked raiders' concentrations south of Poonch with good result. In support of our ground forces RIAF planes carried out operations.

In response to an appeal by Sheikh Mohammed Abdullah, Premier of Kashmir, the Government of India have promptly sent medical stores for the wounded and for refugee relief in Kashmir, says a Press Note.

INDIAN ARMY'S NEXT TASK

Indian troops in strength occupied the town of Uri, 63 miles from Srinagar on Thursday afternoon.

The presence in force of Indian troops at Uri will, it is stated, have a reassuring effect on the population of Muzaffarabad District, adjoining the Hazara District in the Frontier Province, which has been terrorised by the raiders and had been under their control for the past three weeks.

While nothing can be said of the future course of operations, it may be taken for granted that Indian Army troops will push forward into Muzaffarabad District to tackle the raiders, leaving, of course, another column to

Dramatic Search Of Plane For Pakistan

Khaliquzzaman's Brother Involved?

DOCUMENTS FOUND ABOUT ALLEGED 'FIFTH COLUMN' OFFICIALS IN INDIAN UNION

LUCKNOW, Nov. 14, (A.P.I.): A specially chartered plane which arrived here from Karachi and took off after one hour's halt at the Amausi Aerodrome, was searched by the U. P. Police, who are understood to have seized a bundle of secret documents from the possession of a Karachi-bound passenger, Mr. Mushfiquzzaman, brother of Chaudhri Khaliquzzaman, former leader of the Muslim League Party in the Indian Constituent Assembly.

ATTEMPT TO CONCEAL FAILS

According to the police, an attempt was made to conceal the documents under one of the seats when the search was in progress.

Mr. Mushfiquzzaman was, however, permitted to proceed to Karachi.

The police are also reported to have recovered one unlicensed revolver from the possession of another passenger travelling of the some plane.

'Secret Instructions' Seized

The luggage of 76 passengers, all Muslims, who arrived by the special plane from Karachi this morning was searched and a number of "secret instructions" were seized by the police.

The bundle of secret documents which was recovered when the plane was about to take off after one hour's halt with 24 Muslim passengers for Pakistan, concerned several Muslim Officials, who have sworn allegiance to the Indian Dominion. The officials are understood to have written to the Pakistan Government that they would resign in due course and proceed to Pakistan along with more secrets.

The documents revealed that the Muslim Officials and also a British Officer serving in U.P. have assured the Pakistan Government that so long as they are here, they would render all possible assistance to the Pakistan Government at the appropriate time.

P. C.

The case arises out of the complaint filed by Mr S. N. Tandon, President of the Cawnpore City Congress Committee, for the publication of an alleged defamatory statement in the "Tanveer" regarding the search of the offices of his firm.

'Wind Up League And Join Congress'

AZAD'S CALL TO INDIAN MUSLIMS

Delhi Convention Decides To Hold Bigger Conference In Lucknow Next Month

NEW DELHI, Nov. 14, (A.P.I.): The Convention of the Indian Muslims, which met here at the invitation of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, Education Minister, passed a resolution today advising the "Indian Mussalmans to wind up the Muslim League and all other communal political organisations and join the Indian National Congress which stands for unity democracy and progress."

Addressing the Convention, Maulana Azad said that after having decided to put an end to communal politics the Muslim leaders were faced with the more important and also more difficult task of approaching the masses with that message and educating them on the right political lines.

For the past ten years, Maulana Azad added, the Muslim League had been spreading poison among the Muslims and leading them on a wrong and dangerous path. The tremendous task before those, who had come to attend the Convention was to remove the evil effects of the propaganda of the Muslim League. That poison had affected certain non-Muslim sections of the country, too, and the Convention must endeavour to change the entire mental outlook of the people and create a new and healthy atmosphere in the country.

THINK OF COUNTRY FIRST & THEN OF RELIGION

Morarji Desai Advises Muslim Journalists To Avoid Separatist Tendency

BOMBAY, Nov. 13 (A.P.I.): An assurance that the administration would be run on the basis of justice and democratic principles was given by the Home Minister of the Government of Bombay, Mr. Morarji Desai, addressing the Muslim Journalists Association of Bombay Province at an 'at home' given in his honour at the Taj Mahal Hotel on this afternoon.

The Home Minister emphasised that while a section of the Muslim Press had lately improved in tone, others still indulged in the old attitude of rank communalism. It was because the Muslims spoke with two voices that there was doubt about their loyalty to the Indian Union. He, for one, had never asked the Muslims to remain loyal to the Union because loyalty would be seen only in action, and no Government could merely ask for loyalty; the Government must be strong enough to punish disloyalty.

Mr. Desai urged his audience to think of the country first, and then of their religion. Then alone they could ensure recognition of their due political rights. But if they thought that religion came before everything else, then they should be content with only religious rights.

Proceeding, the Home Minister said that the agitation for the division of the country and the creation of Pakistan must now be considered a closed chapter, although the recent tragic happenings in the country were the result of that agitation.

Why should the Muslims in the Union, he asked, have a Political Organisation on a religious basis. There should be no further attempt at division on the basis of religion. The Government of Bombay had decided to abolish Separate Electorates because they wanted to do away with a system which had fostered ill-feeling between communities in the land.

Rash Play Causes Disaster For India

Batsmen Throw Away Wickets At Sydney: 9 Down For 292

(FROM DULEEPSINGHJI, REUTER'S SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

SYDNEY, Nov. 14 (Reuter): India's poor total today on a perfect wicket and against a moderate attack was entirely due to rash strokes, nibbling at balls on the off and poor judgment in running between wickets.

WHAT INDIA DID

I am all for bright cricket, but that does not mean throwing away wickets. Mankad, Sarwate and Adhikari were out to balls they should have left alone.

Gul Mahomed played a good innings, scoring with cover drives and sweeps to leg, but his tactics in jumping out to the new ball not only cost him his wicket but started a collapse, and only a last wicket stand saved India from being out for a very poor total.

Hazare ran himself out when playing well. He drove towards cover and, without looking at Amarnath at the other end, charged down the pitch and failed to regain the crease. Brilliant fielding and returns were responsible for both the run-outs.

Sarwate played a neat and useful innings, and Irani helped Kishenchand in a good last wicket partnership. Kishenchand scored mostly behind the wicket with cuts and leg glances.

WHAT INDIA SHOULD HAVE DONE

The Indians must learn not to nibble at off-balls, especially against fast bowling and when the new ball is being used. Gul Mahomed and Hazare, when well set and on top of a moderate attack, should have driven home the advantage. Gul Mahomed after a good innings, threw it away at a critical time.

India must learn to use the right tactics in this class of cricket, especially against superior teams. The Australian eleven had only a moderate attack. Bradman using Miller sparingly.

India should have built up a big score and the failure of the batsmen against the medium pace bowling was entirely due to their habit of chasing off balls.

The Australian fielding was brilliant, Saggers being outstanding behind the stumps where he took two good catches. Loxton and Johnston bowled a good length and did well to get five wickets between them on a wicket from which they received no help.

THE PLAY

L. Amarnath, India's Captain, marked his return to lead the team against a strong Australian eleven here today by winning the toss and deciding to bat.

Amarnath had been prevented from playing in the greater part of India's last match, against New South Wales here, by an attack of gastritis from which he has fully recovered.

Today he led what was regarded as the strongest side India has fielded since the tour began.

The Australian eleven, though not of Test strength, is nevertheless powerful enough to give India a good rehearsal for the first Test which starts in Brisbane in two weeks time.

India was renewing acquaintance with several players met earlier, notably Don Bradman, Australia's Captain who needs one more century to complete a hundred hundreds in first class cricket, and Hebert the spin bowler who took seven wickets for forty-five runs in the tourists' opening match at Perth.

Rain had fallen overnight but a strong wind had dried the ground and the pitch was firm as Mankad and Sarwate opened the batting to Loxton bowling with the wind and with the sun shining.

The first five runs came from Loxon's first over for which Bradman fielded in the usual position for him of first slip. Without much swing W. Johnston made the ball run away in his first over—a maiden to Mankad—and it was from Loxton that the early runs came.

Both batsmen were inclined to flick at off deliveries and in Johnston's third over Mankad chased a ball which was a foot off his off-stump and gave Miller an easy catch at second slip.

Gul Mahomed came in and watched the ball carefully before forcing Johnston to the on for a single and then driving Loxton for three. The heavy outfield alone prevented this stroke from being a boundary.

A similar well-timed stroke brought Gul Mahomed a three off Loxton's next over and with the total 19 Dooland replaced Johnston. Sarwate continued to present a straight blade to the bowling but Gul Mahomed twice stepped back to pull Dooland though Brown at fairly deep square leg prevented singles. Eventually Gul Mahomed magnificently cover drove Dooland to the fence.

Miller replaced Loxton but he did not bowl his first over at high speed. He increased the pace for the second over, but Sarwate played him confidently hooking one rising delivery for two. Trying to repeat the stroke he was struck on the shoulder. Only superb fielding saved Dooland from severe punishment though Gul Mahomed did again pierce the covers for a four.

GUL MAHOMED'S CONFIDENT BATTING

Miller bowled only two overs before being replaced by Johnston bowling into the wing Gul Mahomed swept an overpitched ball from Dooland to square leg for four to bring up the 50 but the expertly-placed field continued to restrict the scoring rate when both batsmen attempted aggressive strokes. Gul Mahomed late cut Johnston for four and he pulled a ball from outside his off stump square for three.

At 58 Herbert replaced Dooland. The batsmen however took their partnership to 50 in 46 minutes but when 23 and the total 63 Sarwate had an escape. Trying to pull Johnston he was nearly caught by Neil Harvey who failed to reach the ball by about a yard when running in.

Gul Mahomed pulled a short delivery from Herbert for two but at 81 the partnership ended with Sarwate caught by Saggers.

Miller had replaced Loxton for an over before lunch and Sarwate put his bat out to the third delivery which was just outside the off stump and was caught at the wicket his 32 in 90 minutes was a contribution to India's bright start.

Hazare joined Gul Mahomed and late cut Miller for four, lunch being taken with two wickets down for 86.

Hazare and the adventurous Gul Mahomed continued confidently after the interval against Miller. A splendidly timed cover drive for four off Herbert brought Gul Mahomed his 50 in 80 minutes and two overs later Hazare hooked Herberts for two to send up the 100 in 110 minutes. A short bumper from Miller flew two yards over Hazare's head.

Bradman continued to make rapid changes but the batsmen appeared untroubled. Johnston and Dooland were the next pair on but the batsmen drove freely though Brown fielding at mid-wick twice saved fours by his brilliance. Hazare did get Johnston away for four with a short off his back foot through the covers.

Bradman strengthened Dooland's off field but Gul Mahomed pierced the covers with late cuts off successive balls which went to the boundary. This partnership reached 50 in 46 minutes and with the total 145—the end of 40 overs—Johnston and Loxton took over with the new ball. The third 50 of the innings took 42 minutes and then Gul Mahomed daringly hooked Johnston for four and stepped out to send the next delivery to the fence.

When 85 he attempted to on-drive Loxton but the ball swung away and Saggers falling took a brilliant catch standing well back. The partnership had added 80 runs in 69 minutes. Gul Mahomed including nine fours in his stay of 2 1/4 hours.

DEBACLE

Amarnath was given a hearty ovation when he began his innings by turning Loxton to the off for two but almost immediately he lost Hazare. Hazare offdrove Johnston but was sent back by Amarnath only to fail to beat Loxton's return to the wicket-keeper.

Then Adhikari after driving Johnston for four flicked a delivery which was a foot outside his offstump to give Saggers his third catch.

This fall of three wickets for the addition of eight runs marred India's excellent start and altered the situation from what had witnessed batsmen in complete command. Worse followed after Amarnath had taken four off Johnston. He was restrained for 20 minutes but then he played forward to Loxton and was beaten by a ball which came in to hit the top of the middle stump.

Rangnekar and Kishenchand faced an awkward position when they came together. There was no reason for the collapse as the pitch was good and the new ball period had been survived.

Miller bowled one over before tea and Loxton took the last one. Rangnekar stepping too far into his wicket played forward and left his leg stump unguarded and he was bowled. Thus tea arrived with seven men out and 184 on the board.

STARTLING CHANGE

Perhaps the crowd were more dumbfounded than the players at the startling change which had come over the game.

When Amarnath came in there seemed every prospect of a big score as the bowlers appeared subdued but the loss of four wickets in forty minutes left Kishenchand and Sohoni a formidable task if they were to recover the position.

Johnston and Herbert were in charge of the attack after the interval but Kishenchand missed several swings after getting Johnston away for three. Sohoni lifted Herbert over the mid-off's head for four to send up the 200 in three-and-a-half hours, but when the score reached 210 Australia were given another gift wicket. Kishenchand cover-drove Loxton and called, but both men hesitated as Herbert stopped the ball with his boot; Herbert's return beat Sohoni to the crease.

Nayudu began by square-cutting Herbert for three and when Dooland replaced Herbert his first delivery was pulled for four by Kishenchand. Nayudu attempted a big hit off Dooland but he was caught by deep long-on. Hamence, standing ten yards inside the boundary. Kishenchand, keeping the strike, scored mainly behind the wicket and brought up the 250 in four-and-half hours with Irani, the last man in, at the other end.

STUBBORN STAND

The last wicket-stand proved stubborn Kishenchand played Johnston safely while Dooland troubled neither batsmen. Kishenchand reached his fifty in 100 minutes with a late cut off Loxton and the pair were still together at the close, having added 63 valuable runs during the last hour's play. Kishenchand was 57 and Irani 29. Today's attendance reached 10,826 and the takings were pound 1,152.

Double Century For Hassett

BRISBANE, Nov. 14. (Reuter): Lindsay Hassett played a great innings hitting up 202 not out, for Victoria who scored 312 for four against Queensland in the four-day Sheffield Shield match which was begun here today.

Hassett, whose innings was a curious mixture of brilliant stroke play and "stone-walling", reached his century in 170 minutes. He got his next 50 in 49 minutes and completed his double century after a further 79 minutes. He has hit 16 boundaries.

The wicket was not responsive to spin, and Colin McCool, the test bowler has conceded 82 runs without taking a wicket.

NO ZONAL CRICKET THIS YEAR

Mr. Homi J H. Taleyarkhan, Public Relations Officer the Board of Control for Cricket in India writes:—

The Cricket Club of India has decided to abandon the Zonal Cricket tournament for this year. This was conveyed by the Honarary Secretary of the Club to the President of the Board of Control for Cricket in India in a letter. In his reply, the President hass expressed great surprise at the decision taken by the C. C. I. The reason given by the Club for the abandonment of the tournament is the unsettled state of affairs in the country.

It may be recalled here that at the Board meeting held on 15th August 1947, the President had acceded to the Cricket Club of India its special request to stage the Zonal Tournament whose running, otherwise the Board was going to undertake. It was after considerable discussion and deliberation that the President finally persuaded the members of the Board to accept Bombay's persistent appeal to run the tournament this year. The Board President now feels badly let down by the Cricket Club of India.

BOMBAY PENTANGULAR

It may also be mentioned here that it was again at the C. C. I. special request that the Board had decided to allow Bombay to run the Pentangular.

Bright Scoring At The Stadium

Festival Cricket Starts

BOMBAY, Friday.

Fast scoring was seen at the Brabourne Stadium today when Raiji's XI met Ibrahim XI in the opening fixture of this year's Festival Cricket Tournament. At lunch time after play had been in progress for only two hours no fewer than 204 runs were scored by Raiji's XI for the loss of half the side. This remarkable rate of scoring was largely due to Vijay Merchant and Madan Raiji who together contributed 117 runs for the fourth wicket in almost exactly half as many minutes. Merchant scoring 94 before the partnership was eventually dissolved and Raiji carrying his score to within 20 runs of his century before being dismissed by Garudachar.

Bad fielding also contributed to the rapid rate of scoring. No fielder, save Arolkar, was alert, picking up and throwing in being easily the most neglected department. Arolkar's brilliant piece of fielding resulted in Amersey being run out when he looked likely to knock up a respectable score.

After lunch Khambatta and Mohiuddin carried on the excellent work of giving a rough time to the bowlers. They carried the score from 180 to 328 before they were finally separated. Khambatta and Mohiuddin contributed 76 and 77 respectively to their side's total of 351.

Garudachar was easily the most successful bowler, claiming four wickets at the cost of 50 runs in 14 over. He maintained a good length most of the time and his variations of flight and spin made the batsman watch every ball of his.

When Ibrahim's team went in to bat, they found Jobanputra in grand form and accounted for three wickets very quickly after a good start had been made. He kept a good length and made an occasional ball lift and troubled the batsmen. Ibrahim played a typically stolid innings and carried his bat at the end of the day for a valuable 55.

FUTURE OF FRENCH INDIA

KARAIKAL, Nov. 14 (UPI): "We cannot visualise any part of Mother India, however small it may be, remaining under alien domination, even if that domination be of a liberal nature."

Thus observes the Secretary of the Foreign Department of the All-India Congress Committee, in reply to a letter from the Secretary of the French India Socialist Party, in regard to the future of French India.

He says: "I have no doubt in my mind that French India should immediately become part of the Indian Union. Therein lies your salvation. Let me make this point clear. No amount of verbal quibbling can convince the Congress (and that means Nationalist India) that you would be better off with France as your partner. And Congress knows, because it has fought all these years the greatest imperialist power on earth and has experienced the 'benefits' of that rule. It is a pity that your Party should think otherwise and live in a dream-world of your own."

Concluding, the Foreign Secretary of the All-India Congress Committee observes:

"As I write, news comes that France is thinking of granting dual citizenship on French Indians. It looks as if they have agreed to your proposals. If so, and if you are still thinking in terms of helping your rulers to continue on Indian soil, then may God help you and the people of French India. It was not long ago that the Viet-Namese representatives approached us and revealed to us the designs of the French. May I refer you to the brave Viet-Namese?"

BRITISH MODEL FOR INDIA

Colville Cites Example Of Mother Of Parliaments

BOMBAY, Friday.

"I hope that the future constitution of this country will be modelled on that of the Mother of Parliaments, who, for all her vagaries, is, I think, the wisest old lady in the world". Thus observed Sir John Colville, the retiring Governor of Bombay while replying to a reception accorded to him by the Progressive Group at Green's, this evening.

Mr. Homi J. H. Talyarkhan who presided referred to Sir John as one of the most popular Governors, who had landed on the shores of India.

The Governor in the course of his address expressed the hope that India may remain in the Commonwealth. He said "Whether India should remain in the family of nations that constitutes the Commonwealth is a matter for her own decision. I have never disguised my personal hope that she will do so, for within that Commonwealth there is perfect freedom to govern according to the wishes of the people and to conduct relationship abroad. That choice however rests solely with the people of India through their accredited leaders and with no one else.

At the outset Sir John spoke at length on his work and experience in Bombay. His governorship in Bombay was divided into three distinct periods. The first three years since March, 1943 were spent as "Section 93 Governor". He was then a virtual dictator of the province. Being a democrat by nature and training, he abhorred that position. It was a curious experience for him to be temporarily a totalitarian. The second phase began in 1945 when he was made a constitutional Governor with a Ministry, limited and charged by the provisions of the 1933 Act. This was a period of administration in which useful work was done in the province in spite of the storms of controversy that arose as to the future Government of India.

The last phase commenced on August 15 when India became a free and independent Dominion whose Governors were selected by her own representative leaders. He had submitted his resignation to the Viceroy. He was however pleased to be invited to stay on and take part as a fully constitutional Governor in the new India.

Concluding Sir John assured those present that in future his work in England would be to do his utmost to further true friendship and good relations between India and England.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Things of so diverse a nature as Oil which is greasy and dirty and Caustic Soda which causes irritation and burns, could, when combined, give us good Soap. I hope the Caustic Soda of Russia and Oil of America would one day mix and give the world the Soap which she much required for washing.

—C. RAJAGOPALACHARI

The Bombay Chronicle

FINAL ARBITERS

Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel's speech at Junagadh is an exposition of the Government of India's policy with regard to the accession of the States, that whenever the question of accession is in dispute it should be finally decided in accordance with the wishes of the people. Indeed, when the Government of Junagadh, with the approval of the Ruler, invited the Government of India to take over the administration of the State so as to avoid chaos therein, the latter agreed only because the people of the State had previously approved of the invitation. Punctilious about this principle, Sardar Patel asked the huge public meeting of over 50,000 people at Junagadh, whether they wished to accede to India or Pakistan, and they with one voice declared for India. He also announced that while the demonstration at the meeting was sufficient to convince him that he was proceeding on the right lines, he would, however, make full arrangements for the unfettered expression of popular opinion on the question of accession.

Referring to the Junagadh Government's invitation to the Government of India to intervene in the State, a press note issued by the Government of Pakistan says that neither the Dewan nor, for that matter, the Ruler himself has any authority to negotiate any settlement, temporary or permanent, with the Indian Dominion. In reply Sardar Patel has pointed out at a public meeting at Rajkot that the Dewan had the support of the people of the State. And he pertinently asks what other authority under any conception of sovereignty the Dewan needed in support of his action. The Dewan now pleads that Junagadh "is still a part of Pakistan" and that the State "only asked the Indian Union to help in the maintenance of law and order." But the Dewan's letter to the Regional Commissioner of the Indian Union at Rajkot makes it clear that the Junagadh Government "thought it necessary to ascertain the opinion of the leading members of the public" and that at the meeting that followed "the view of the leaders was unanimously expressed that instead of handing over the administration to the Indian Union through the so-called Provisional Government, it should be directly given over to the Indian Union through the Regional Commissioner at Rajkot." So long as the decision was in favour of "handing over the administration to the Indian Union," it does not matter much whether the "handing over" was effected directly or through the Provisional Government. The view of the leaders has since been endorsed by the public meeting at Junagadh which has unequivocally declared for accession to the Indian Union and the question will be finally settled by a formal referendum to the people. The people shall be the final arbiters.

What is true of Junagadh is also true of every other State where there is a dispute about accession. In this connection Sardar Vallabhbhai has naturally made specific mention of Kashmir and Hyderabad. Kashmir has already agreed both to have a popular Government and to leave the question of accession to the people Hyderabad has not yet taken either of these steps. But Sardar Patel gives a timely and friendly warning when he says: "If Hyderabad wishes to be heard she must follow bravely and courageously the popular will. Otherwise, Hyderabad's fate will, sooner or later, be the same as those of other rulers and dynasties who had attempted to thwart the popular will only at the cost of their existence." We trust that before it is too late the Ruler of Hyderabad will agree to inaugurate a popular Government and also to let the people decide the question of accession.

Cloth Production

At the Conference Dr. Shyama Prasad Mookerjee, Minister for Industries and Supplies, had with the members of the Southern India Millowners' Association, Mr. Venkataswami Naidu, President of the Association, attributed the low production of cloth to the textile policy of Government and the numerous strikes by the workers. Government's general policy is certainly not impeccable but the puublic feel—not without reason—that the policy has benefited millowners themselves more than the workers and that in any case it should be revised in the interests of better production. Government's new tentative proposals are an improvement on the former ones but much depends on the prices of different varieties of cloth, to be determined on the advice of the New Tariff Board. But in so far as the prices need to be enhanced they should be enhanced only on the superior varieties. Mr. Naidu's plea for an increase in the price structure of coarse and medium counts is not in public interest. As regards nine hours' work a day, it should be purely on a voluntary basis and the additional wage should be appreciably more than proportional. As for the strikes, we agree that some of the recent strikes were inadvisable and hit the workers themselves hardest. But in many cases the workers have reasonable grievances and it behoves the millowners to be fair in redressing them. Dr. Mookerjee has rightly warned them that if they did not work in spirit of co-operation with all interests concerned, and did not take a realistic view of things, the problem could not be solved.

Frankly Speaking

Curse Of Mid-East

Mr. L. W. Henderson, Director of the United States State Department's office of Near Eastern and African affairs, has declared that the fate of these countries depended on keeping the Middle East oilfields out of the hands of an "unfriendly great Power." The "unfriendly great Power," that is to say, the Soviet Union, shares the knowledge with reciprocally complimentary views. The result is that the Middle East is the innocent victim of intrigues, manoeuvres and designs of rival powers greedy for oil and expansionist hegemony. Its strategic position and its oil, instead of being blessings to the Middle East have become the worst curse that can afflict any country or region that does not possess material force and brute might.

Playing With Fire

The Middle East seems to be doomed to become the arena for Big Power struggles and suffer miseries in spite of its innocence. Palestine is one expression of that Big Power greed. Arab Palestine is to be destroyed to make the Middle East safe for political and economic exploitation and for possession of its oil. The Partition Scheme has been cynically supported by both rivals because both must have footholds in that region each against the other and therefore comfortable and beneficial to neither. Nor does it seem to occur to the Partitionists that the Arabs might fight with everything and to the end for their rights. They are so naive that they probably entertain the hope that by generously adding the city—not even the whole district—of Jaffa to the Arab State in a partitioned Palestine they will have turned Arab opposition to gratification and gratitude. Actually this "generosity" is only a foot note to the insult and robbery that is being planned. Partition cannot succeed. It cannot be enforced. Its only result will be a conflagration in which the Partitionists too will suffer and because of inevitable developments they will suffer more grievously than the Arabs.

India's Withdrawal

The Chairman of the U. N. Assembly, Senor Aranha, thanked India for its "generous gesture" in withdrawing from the contest for membership of the Security Council. He could do no less. The withdrawal, which alone could apparently break the deadlock and rescue the United Nations' most important and main executive organ from complete inactivity, is proof of India's consciousness of its responsibility to U.N.O. and its work. But India sought the election not in greedy desire for honour but for a vital principle of justice and equity. The Security Council should represent the whole world and the interests of all its important regions. It cannot ignore Asia for the sake of Europe and the Americas. And it certainly denies itself by treating the South-West Pacific and Indian Ocean regions as if they simply did not count at all. India demanded, through its candidature, the right of representation for these regions.

The Fight Continues

That right still remains to be accepted. And it has become, moreover, the victim of a so-called agreement between certain powers for distribution of seats. This arrangement whereby the Security Council seats have been reduced to the status of private gifts by certain Powers and groups is an evil which must be challenged in the interests of the Security Council and, therefore, of the United Nations Organisation itself. India's fight had thus two objectives: to secure representation for the Indian Ocean region and to free the Security Council from the private possession of certain powers and groups. The issues remain even though India has withdrawn from the contest. And all those who are interested in fair representation and democratic freedom for the U.N.O. would welcome the announcement of Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit that India is not going to let the matter end with its withdrawal from the Security Council contest and that it will bring the issues before the Assembly which must pronounce upon them clearly and decisively.

India Is Fortunate To Have Jawahar At Helm Of Affairs

TRIBUTES TO NEHRU FROM FAR AND NEAR

Mountbatten Calls Him One Of Greatest Men In Any Country At Any Time In History

LONDON, Nov. 14, (Reuter): Viscount Mountbatten, Governor-General of India, speaking in London today of the disorder which, he said, reigned when Pandit Nehru and his Government took over, on the transfer of power, declared: "It was enough to try any new Government, but Pandit Nehru and his Government rose above it".

Lord Mountbatten, was unveiling a portrait of Pandit Nehru at India House, the Headquarters of the High Commissioner in London.

97 P.C. OF INDIA'S POPULATION LIVING IN PEACE

Only three percent of India's 400,000,000 people, said Lord Mountbatten were involved in the trouble spots, the remaining 97 percent were living in peace and quietness.

"But that is not news. News is not what is going well. News is what is going very badly. How much do you read about those living in peace and happiness and contentment? I ask you to bear that in mind when you think of these two struggling new nations."

Within three weeks of taking office, Lord Mountbatten continued, Pandit Nehru found himself at the head of a Government in a Capital City where life and communications had been brought very nearly to a standstill.

"The massacres have been bad enough, Lord Mountbatten added, "and it would be foolish to try to pretend otherwise. But we are now starting to compute the actual figures. We have the official reports of both the Indian and Pakistan governments and the totals are being kept correctly and being added up."

ONLY A SMALL FRACTION OF FIGURES QUOTED

He said it was not his place to try to prejudice what the final figures would be, but, he had no hesitation in saying that they would not only be far less than anyone else in the moment thought but "will be small fraction of the large figures which have been quoted."

Lord Mountbatten declared that when history came to be written, Pandit Nehru would prove to have been one of the greatest men any country had had at any time in history. He was a man of the highest imaginable integrity, a man who had never at any time, in any stress, suggested any policy or action of which he or his countrymen would ever need be ashamed when history came to be written.

NOEL-BAKER'S TRIBUTE

The British Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations, Mr. Philip Noel-Baker, said the secret of Pandit Nehru's life was that he was the vehicle of a power which was greater than himself. His honour and integrity would shine for all the centuries to come.

Mr. Noel-Baker said Pandit Nehru had been a great Nationalist, but he had become a great internationalist as well.

He had largely made the forces now controlling Asia, forces which could turn the continent from the follies to which Europe had so often fallen during the last decade.

INDIA IS FORTUNATE

It was fortunate that India, in her crisis, had had such a man who could lead not only India but Asia, not by military but by moral force.

He hoped that both Britain and India would honour Pandit Nehru and work for the common happiness of mankind.

Mr. Noel-Baker expressed the British Government's gratitude to Lord Mountbatten for what he had done in India.

The U.P.A. adds:

Indian High Commissioner Krishna Menon in a tribute to Mountbatten's achievements in India, said: "History will show both India and Britain owe him a debt of gratitude."

Both Noel-Baker and Menon thanked Mountbatten for putting the events "into their proper perspective."

Menon said Mountbatten had been successful because he had "indulged in no trickery but gave Indians a straight and honest deal....Lord and Lady Mountbatten did not indulge in kissing babies and distributing buns."

The ceremony was curtailed because Noel-Baker had received an urgent call for an emergency Cabinet meeting at noon which Menon announced, adding, "we hope this is not a Cabinet secret."

India House was crammed with Indian and foreign visitors, the notable exceptions being the Pakistan High Commissioner and the Sovviet Ambassador.

The ceremony closed with a choir singing of Vande Mataram.

CHETTY'S TRIBUTE TO NEHRU

MADRAS, Nov. 14 (API): If India's reputation is high in the international sphere despite adverse propaganda by interested parties, it was in no small measure due to the enlightened and dynamic leadership of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, said India's Finance Minister, Mr. R. K. Shanmugham Chetty, presiding over a public meeting held this evening to celebrate Pandit Nehru's birthday.

Characterizing Pandit Nehru as a "born leader" with a youthful spirit, Mr. Chetty said that India was really fortunate to have him at the helm of affairs to guide her destinies at this critical period. No country had witnessed such a terrible ordeal as India had to go through in the wake of independence. But for the great courage and forbearance displayed by Pandit Nehru in tackling the most difficult problems arising out of the sudden outbreak of communal riots in the north, Mr. Chetty said, India would have been in a very bad plight today.

Ever since the division of India, Mr Shanmugham Chetty continued, the Pakistan Government had launched an anti-Indian propaganda. India would not have been embarrassed with the States problem had it not been for the intrigue of Pakistan in the States.

Hardly had the disturbances subsided, he said trouble started in Kashmir due to the machinations of the Pakistan Government.

JINNAH FORESTALLED BY UNION TROOPS

Quad-i-Azam Jinnah, rumour had it, flew to Lahore from his capital to march his troops into Kashmir as Hitler marched into Austria, but Indian troops forestalled him. If the Indian forces had not been rushed to Srinagar within 12 hours of the Maharaja's request, Kashmir would have fallen a frey to Pakistan.

Proceeding, he said that Pakistan again wooed Junagadh to her side even though it had nothing in common with that State which lay in the heart of Kathiawar and whose population consisted of 92 percent Hindus. It was at the express desire of the Junagadh administration that India went to her help to maintain law and order.

HYDERABAD WILL FOLLOW JUNAGADH?

The Finance Minister incidentally referred to the disturbances in Hyderabad where Hindus formed 87 percent of the population. There were reports of large-scale imports of arms into the State. However, he advised the people not to give way to panic but face the situation bravely. He felt sure that Hyderabad would, before long seek the help and protection of Indian Union like Junagadh.

With ample resources at her disposal, Mr. Shanmugham Chetty declared that India could develop into a Major Power in the world.

Mr. O. P. Ramaswamy Reddier, Madras Premier, who spoke next, exhorted the youth to follow the footsteps of leaders like Pandit Nehru and be of real service to the country. He also appealed to them to organise peace brigades to help the authorities in the preservation of law and order.

Both Mr. Shanmukham Chetty and the Premier spoke in Tamil.

EDUCATING THE ARMY

Visit To A Poona School

(By G. N. ACHARYA, Our Special Correspondent).

POONA.

The uniformed adult learners sat in a semi-circle on simple wooden chairs, under the pleasantly warm sun. The trainees, a group of officers who, at their own desire, had been deputed for the brief four weeks' course stood around. One of them—a lance corporal from the south, keen as mustard was trying to drill his experimental pupils to master the difference between "Is" and "Is not" by the direct method of teaching. The army instructor, Lt. Pragmal Rathore, Education officer, 11th army group looked on with a keen and critical eye.

Four days earlier the soldier pupil knew no English whatsover but for swear words and such other delectable tommy slang they may have picked up from the officers and others with whom they worked and lived. Now they were going over their four day stock of Basic English words, unabashed by the mixed group of army officers and pressmen who watched the experiment with keen interest.

"FRATTING" WITH THE ARMY

We were the guests of the army. This army is ours—entirely ours. We wanted to know it. We wanted to meet the officers and men and find out what they felt, what they though, how they reacted to the great change that had come over India since August 15. Major K. C. Kapoor, Deputy Assistant Director, Public Relations, Southern Command, helpfully agreed to do his bit. A convenient occasion was provided by Lt. Col. K. R. G. Menon, staff officer 1 (Education), Southern Command—a man obviously of deep culture and keenly interested in the education of the men under his charge, who only four days earlier had inaugurated a Basic English Instructors' Course at Khadakvasala.

On the left bank of the lake, under the inspiring shadow of Sinhagad, famous as the scene of one of the most heroic exploits in the meteoric career of the great Shivaji, is now stationed the 36th Anti-tank Para Regiment, the No. 9 Anti-tank Para Regiment and 26th light Ack Ack Regiment.

We met a number of officers and men of this army group in the course of an enjoyable half day, accepted their hospitality, which is impossible to any civilian establishment in these rationed days, and played a challenge match in Cricket Darts with an army team led by Brigadier J. W. Palmer. Of course the press Amateurs took a heavy beating and cheered the army team without any reservation. Capt. M. M. Chhabra took us over the lake in an amphibian DUKW, from the Peacock Bay to the promonotory on the left bank, where is encamped the 17th para regiment—also of the same 11th Army group.

Our programme of "fratting" with the army began at the school—a modest hut in which the trainees received their instruction. The practice classes were held outdoors or in a room in which I noticed there were hung four pictures which told their own tale. These were the pictures of Mahatma Gandhi, Pandit Nehru, Shivaji and Rana Pratap.

ARMY LEARNS ENGLISH

But why teach English at all now that India has attained independence? Col. Menon answered that question: Till we can evolve a common language for India and can produce text books to meet our requirements especially in technical education, we must make the best use of the legacy left us by the British. It will be suicidal to do away with English, lock, stock and barrel. He went on further to explain how, for the army signals and various other aspects of work in the army, it was essential that the men should learn English.

With the attainment of freedom the question of the literacy and education standards of the rank and file of the armed forces of India has become more important than it was before. The raw recruits who enter the army are often unlettered and are not able to speak any other language except their mother tongue. The Army School of Education has, therefore, evolved a scheme of educating the soldiers. There are three certificate courses—the first, second and third class. The first class army certificate examination has already been recognised by some universities as being equivalent to the matriculation.

The G.H.Q. sent out just brief orders, under which Indian soldiers were expected to be taught "sufficient English". It was a rather vague and unhelpful expression and it was not till 1945 that the Army Educators arrived at a standard definition. They decided that the soldiers must be taught to master the 350 words of Basic English plus another couple of hundred words specially needed for work in the army. Text books were prepared and the job of instructing the instructors was taken in hand.

But then the Army School of Education discontinued such courses and the whole thing is under a process of reorganisation. Meanwhile the Southern Command has begun to run a series of brief training courses to meet the demand for English instructors.

Basic English, which has become a sort of cult with its enthusiasts, was struggling to make headway in civilian life. The army gave it a break. Tried first on war prisoners—Italians and others who were taught English—teaching methods have now been developed and perfected and are being put into effective use to give a sound grounding in English to the Indian soldier.

It was interesting to know and learn all this. But the informal contact with the officers was even more so. There is a general feeling that army conversation does not go beyond a few smutty jokes. We found this completely wrong. Discussion—and very intelligent discussion developed about the right ideals of education, the Wardha system, its drawback, the general philosophy of Mahatma Gandhi, the prospects of Pakistan and so on. One officer was holding forth on the economic instability and impossibility of Pakistan as a State. Another was warning that it was all a piece of wishful thinking. Differences of opinion were expressed in the liveliest manner.

A HOPEFUL FUTURE

But there seemed to be little difference of opinion about one thing—the future of the Indian army. The confidence of the officers was exhilarating. I suggested that it may not be desirable to get rid of all European officers and a few British officers were bound to be in the Indian Army for some considerable time. The idea was hotly resented. They have no objection to the British. A British military mission was welcome; but nothing more. They were quite sure Indians were equal to the highest office in the army. They would give a good account of themselves.

"Some day our army will produce a few Shivajis", said one of them.

It sounds a little boastful perhaps, but they did not seem to think it anything impossible. They were conscious, of course, that the army has yet to prove itself. It waits for its chance.

Speaking at Rajkot, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel warned Princes against false or fraudulent advice by interested persons and suggested: "Instead, let them carry the people with them."

For the benefit of the Junagadh Durbar which, according to the authoritative opinion of the Pakistan Government, does not understand its rights and duties, it ought to be made clear that the Sardar did not mean that it should have carried the people of Junagadh also with it to Karachi.

Hugh Dalton Resigns

LONDON, November, 14. (Reuter): The resignation of British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Hugh Dalton, following his admission in Parliament yesterday that he had given some of the contents of his budget to a London evening newspaper before he disclosed it to the House of Commons, removed one of the "big five" from the Cabinet heirarchy and alters the disposition of the inner Cabinet, writes Reuters political correspondent.

With the believed continued ascendency of Sir Stafford Cripps, who succeeds Mr. Dalton, and who as Economic Minister has had no fewer than five Government departments under his control, the order of precedence is as follows: Premier Clement Attlee, with Mr. Ernest Bevin, the Foreign Secretary, and Sir Stafford Cripps as his lieutenants and Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison forming the fourth corner of this square.

Sir Stafford Cripps became Minister of Economic Affairs in September last. He had held other ministerial posts earlier during which period one of the most important duties he carried out for the Cabinet was his mission to India in April 1942 to seek agreement for the plan for that country's post-war independence.

Sir Stafford is recognised as the Government's chief apostle of austerity, both in public policy and his personal conduct. He lives on raw fruit and vegetables and does not drink alcohol.

Sixty years old Hugh Dalton, has been a strong labour man all his political life. He was Chairman of the party's National Executive for a year. In debates he has an inquisitorial manner no doubt sharpened by his legal and scientific training. In the first world war he fought in Italy and in the second world war Mr. Winston Churchill made him Minister of Economic Warfare and therefore responsible for the blockade of Germany.

MEMBERS PRESS FOR INQUIRY.

When the House of Commons met to-day, members pressed for the appointment of an All-Party Select Committee to inquire into the Chancellor of the Exchequer Dalton's budget leak which led dramatically to his resignation late last night.

The Government is expected to give its answer to this demand either late to-night or on Monday.

The new Chancellor, Sir Stafford Cripps, is not expected to make serious alterations to Dr. Dalton's budget. There is a belief in certain quarters that Sir Stafford's views on economic policy differ at many points from those of Dr. Dalton, but this is unlikely to be reflected in any big way—if then—before his own first budget next April.

With Sir Stafford Cripps' assumption of the post of Chancellor, his title of Economics Minister automatically disappears but he will continue to act as Chief Economic Co-ordinator for the Government, authoritative London quarters said.

This means that he will have greater power over a wide range of Government Departments than has ever been enjoyed by any Minister apart from the Premier. In addition to the Exchequer he will supervise the Board of Trade, the Ministry of Supply, the Ministry of Transport, the Ministry of Fuel and Power and the Ministry of Agriculture.

"STAR'S" REGRETS

As Mr. Morrison was speaking to the Commons, the London Evening 'Star' which published details of Britain's interim budget before Dr. Dalton made his announcement and brought about his resignation, said in an editorial:

"The Star' deeply regrets that by the publication in this journal of an accurate forecast of some of the Chancellor's main budget proposals a few minutes in advance of his actual declaration, the personal tragedy of Dr. Dalton's resignation has been brought about.

"The Star shares the widespread sympathy for Dr. Dalton.

8 Hyderabad Villages Declare 'Independence'

EXPRESS DESIRE TO JOIN INDIAN UNION

All Freedom-Loving Forces Urged To Support Struggle

MADRAS, Nov. 14, (A.P.I.): Eight villages belonging to the Nizam's state, but situated in the Kistna district, Madras Presidency, have declared 'independence' and expressed their desire to join the Indian Union.

This was revealed by Mr. M. Ramachandra Rao, member of the Council of Action, Hyderabad State Congress, speaking at a public meeting last evening.

The people of the Ganagapadu village he said, were the first to take a lead in this direction and declare themselves independent a month ago and this was followed by seven other villages lying in the Kistna district. The state officials had either left those places or identified themselves with the villagers and the Nizam's Government had at present no control over them, he added. To reach those villages the state troops had to pass through the Indian territory.

In a rapid survey of their struggle in Hyderabad, Mr Rao said that the condition in Hyderabad were not like those in Mysore or Travancore. They were fighting in Hyderabad against a power supported by a whole community in the name of Ittihad-ul-Musleimin. He appealed for the support of all freedom loving people in their struggle to achieve responsible Government in the State

KARNATAK CONGRESS COMMITTEE ON DECCAN STATES UNION

The Council of the K.P.C.C. has passed the following resolution on Deccan States Union:—"This Council of the K.P.C.C. has been following the political developments in the Deccan States very closely ever since beginning of the attempts for the Union of the Deccan States by the Princes. This Council is of opinion that the Princes have singularly failed to consult the opinion of the people of their respective states in a democratic manner. Conventions convened on several occasions to consider the proposed Union of the representatives of the people as well as several conferences and men of note have expressed themselves definitely against this Union and the methods adopted by the Princes to achieve it. The K.P.C.C. Council is aware of the extreme dissatisfaction and resentment growing among the people of these states regarding the way their opinion is either bypassed or treated with indifference. It is also aware that the people are not satisfied with the terms of the covenant which they feel are not only undemocratic but in several respects reactionary.

The K.P.C.C. Council feel that in the interest of peace, tranquillity, and progress of public life in these states, it is essential that the Princes should approach their people forthwith and convince them of their bonafides. The Council also appeals to the leaders of public opinion that they should kindly study the wishes and opinion of the people before blessing the scheme.

It extends its sympathy to all those who have been the innocent victims of this colossal tragedy.

SECULAR STATE

At this moment of crisis, it is necessary that the Congress should declare its faith and policy in clear terms and that the people, as well as the Government, should follow that policy unswervingly. Even though the Congress agreed to a division of the country in the hope, which has so far proved vain, that thereby internal conflicts might cease, it never accepted the theory that there are two or more nations in India. It has firmly believed in the whole of India as a nation bound together by indissoluble cultural and historical links which have been further strengthened in the course of the national struggle for freedom. It was on the basis of this faith that the Congress grew up as a national institution open to all Indians without difference of creed or religion.

India is a land of many religions and many races and must remain so. Nevertheless India has been, and is, a country with a fundamental unity and the aim of the Congress has been to develop this great country as a whole as a Democratic Secular State where all citizens enjoy full rights and are equally entitled to the protection of the State irrespective of the religion to which they belong.

The Constituent Assembly has accepted this as the basic principle of the constitution. This lays on every Indian the obligation to honour it.

ASSURANCE TO MINORITIES

The Congress wants to assure the minorities in India that it will continue to protect, to the best of its ability, their citizenship rights against aggression. The Central Government, as well as the Provincial Governments, must accordingly make every effort to create conditions wherein all minorities and all citizens have security and opportunity for progress. All citizens must also on their part, not only share in the benefits of freedom but shoulder the burdens and responsibility which accompany it, and must, above all, be loyal to India.

The All-India Congress Committee calls upon all Congressmen and the people of India to adhere strictly to these well-established principles of the Congress and not to allow themselves to be diverted into wrong channels by passion or prejudice or by the tragic events that have happened. The real good and progress of India have yet to be achieved, and this can only be done by adhering to the ideals and policy of the Congress and discarding and opposing all false doctrines, which have done so much mischief to India and her people.

CONGRESS TO INCLUDE ALL PARTIES

(From Our Special Correspondent)

ALLAHABAD, (By Mail).

The followers of "One leader, one party, and one ideology" cult in the Congress has received a rude shock as the Congress Working Committee, it is understood, has rejected it.

It is to be recalled that the Congress Constitutional Reform Committee set up by the Meerut Congress Session, in their report, suggested that all the political groups within the Congress should be knocked out and Congress should be wedded to one socio-political ideology.

The same decision was taken by the All-India Congress Presidents and Secretaries Conference held in the month of March, 1947.

But, top-ranking Congress leaders like Mahatma Gandhi, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru Syt. J. B. Kripalani and Maulana Abul Kalam Azad think otherwise. They are of opinion that the Congress should continue to be United Front of all political groups and it is more essential to face the present crisis.

Final decision will be taken by the AICC meeting convened at Delhi.

"Wind Up League And Join Congress"

the basic principles it would be for the larger gathering of Muslims, to be held in December, to formulate a programme of action embodying those principles.

Maulana Azad said that he did not favour the idea of forming a new Muslim organisation to lead the Indian Muslims towards nationalism. It would not be proper to form such a party after accepting that communal political parties were wrong in principle. They had agreed that the Muslims of India should join the Indian National Congress and that left no room for any new communal political party.

The real work of the Convention was to begin now when a serious attempt should be made to wean the Muslims away from communalism, he said.

The virus of communalism, Maulana Azad continued, had spread far and wide in the country and time had come for all patriots to try to put an end to it. The All-India Congress Committee, which was meeting in Delhi on Saturday, was going to discuss a resolution calling upon all Congressmen to break away from all communal political organisations, he revealed. Communalism had assumed such gigantic proportions in the country that the Congress felt that it must ask its members to bring about a final and complete break with such organisations.

INDIA AT CROSS-ROADS

India stood on the cross-roads. The people of India must decide it once for all whether they were going the way of communalism or nationalism, and also whether they wanted democracy or Fascism. The final parting of ways between the two opposing ideologies must come now, and the people must make their irrevocable choice. If at this juncture, Maulana Azad said, they failed to make the right decision the progress of the country would be held up for a long time to come.

END MENACE

The communal organisations today both Muslim and non-Muslim, had become a real menace to India. They had gathered this importance, he thought, because the Congress had in the past dealt with them leniently. The Congress could not afford to repeat its mistake as after innumerable sacrifices for the achievement of freedom their hopes of a prosperous and progressive india would come to naught if communalism was not put down with a strong hand.

Even after the division of India, Maulana Azad said, the Muslims formed 13 per cent of the total population and they must play an important part in shaping the future of the country. But they must now cease to think in terms of their own community and work for the good of the entire people of India as a whole.

JOIN CONGRESS

"Whatever mistakes it might have made in the past the Indian National Congress still remains the only patriotic body capable of giving the right lead it is the only light on the Indian horizon today. He appealed to all Muslims to join it and strengthen the hands of progressive elements in their fight against reaction.

LARGER GATHERING AT LUCKNOW

Referring to the larger gathering of the Indian Muslims to be held next month at Lucknow, Maulana Azad emphasised the need of inviting Muslims of all shades of thought to attend that Conference and take part in its deliberations."

"The Muslim Leaguers must not be kept out of it because of their past actions. They are welcome if they are willing to co-operate with us and follow the decision taken at the conference by the majority", he declared.

EXECUTIVE FORMED

The Convention elected a Committee of 23 to function as an Executive till that Conference was held at Lucknow and to make preparations for its meeting. Mr. Rafi Ahmed Kidwai, Dr. Syed Mohmud, Mr. A. Q. Ansari, Maulana Hussain Ahmed Madani, Maulana Hifzur Rehman, Prof. Humayun Kabir and Dr. Saif-ud-Din Kichlu are some of the members of the Committee.

Full Text

The following is the full text of the resolution moved by Hafiz Mohd. Ibrahim, seconded by Mr. S. A. Brelvi and accepted unanimously by the Convention:

This Convention of Musalmans from the nine Indian Provinces records its profound sense of grief at the tragic happenings that have taken place since August 1946 and conveys to all victims of the outrages its deep and heartfelt sympathy. The loss in life, property and security are terrible beyond words, but of even greater danger to our future is the threat to the freedom, peace and progress of the land.

"The upheaval has taken a communal turn but in reality it is a fresh attempt to undermine and weaken our democratic leadership, by the reactionary anti-democratic Fascist forces of the country which in the past have always opposed our freedom movements. Such reactionary, anti-democratic and Fascist forces thrive under the guise of Communalism and it is, therefore, the duty of all Indian communities to abjure communalism from politics and approach political problems from a non-sectarian socio-economic angle.

WIND UP LEAGUE AND JOIN CONGRESS

This Convention, therefore advises Indian Musalmans to wind up the Muslim League and all other communal political organisations and join the Indian National Congress which stands for unity, democracy and progress. In order to take a decision in the spirit of that counsel and frame future lines of policy, this Convention hereby invites a representative Conference of Indian Muslims of all shades of political opinion in Lucknow not later than the end of December, 1947.

"This Convention hereby converts itself into the 'Foundation Committee' of the proposed conference and authorises the President of this Convention (Maulana Abul Kalam Azad) to nominate a small Executive to take such action as necessary for purposes of the Conference".

violence to the ideal which the Congress has held since its inception. It is of opinion that these migrations should be discouraged and conditions should be created both in Indian Dominion and Pakistan for minorities to live in peace and security. If such conditions are created the desire to migrate another part of the country will disappear.

In the opinion of the committee, it is wrong to coerce the Hindu and Sikh inhabitants of Pakistan into leaving their homes and migrating to the Indian Union, and the Muslims of the Indian Union into migrating to Pakistan.

THEY MUST RETURN HOME

"While it is impossible to undo all that has been done every effort should be made to enable the evacuees and refugees from either Dominion ultimately to return to their homes and to their original occupations under conditions of safety and security. Those who have not left their homes already should be encouraged to stay there unless they themselves desire to migrate, in which case facilities for migrating should be made available. It is the duty of the Central Government of the Indian Union and the Government of Pakistan to negotiate on this basis and to create conditions which would enable the evacuees and refugees to return with safety.

In any event the policy to be followed in the Indian Union is to protect the minorities still residing there and to prevent their removal by force or by creating circumstances which compel evacuation.

Such being the policy of the Congress, the refugees in the Indian Union are entitled to every care and attention from the authorities and the people within the Union as long as they have to remain there. They are not to be regarded as interlopers grudgingly placed with charity. They will have the same rights and be under the same obligations as any other citizen. Where they are living in camps they will be expected to render some social service in co-operation with fellow-refugees, subject to the rules framed for the good Government of the camp. Sanitary and other services should be performed by the inmates of the camps under instructions from those fitted for the work and who will themselves take part in these services. Refugees should be engaged in productive work as far as possible on co-operative basis.

SETTLEMENT OF REFUGEES

Refugees from West Punjab shall as a rule be accommodated in East Punjab. Those from the other parts of Pakistan shall be accommodated in places that the Central Government, in co-operation with the Provincial Governments, may consider more suitable. Those from a particular locality should, as far as possible be kept together.

In this task the Provincial Governments should offer their full co-operation and should take in and make suitable arrangements for as many refugees as they can.

No house, not vacated willingly by a Muslim, shall be used for the accommodation of refugees.

The movements of refugees, which are already taking place by train, convoy or otherwise, should be regulated in accordance with the policy laid down above and no one should be sent away unless he expresses his desire to migrate.

This principle should apply also to the states which have acceded to the Indian Union and from which a large number of Muslims have been evacuated or driven out.

The A.I.C.C. trusts that the Central Government of the Indian Union the East Punjab Government and the Governments of the States affected by these migrations will give effect to the policy indicated above and will issue directions to all their officers to act strictly in accordance with it.

DAWN OF FREEDOM

The following is the full text of the second resolution:—

The All-India Congress Committee welcomes the elimination of foreign rule in India and the establishment of a Free and Independent State and a Government responsible to the people of the country. The achievement of freedom is the culmination of the long struggle of the Indian National Congress and the outcome of the sufferings and tribulations of the Indian people. Freedom brings responsibility and new burdens and problems.

ATROCITIES CONDEMNED

The freedom achieved was not the kind that the Congress had envisaged during its long history. It has been accompanied by secession of parts of the country and disasters of unparalleled magnitude. Hardly was Free India born when a grave crisis overtook it and events happened which have besmirched her fair name and brought death and desolation to vast numbers of innocent people in circumstances too tragic for words.

There have been arson, loot and murder on a mass scale in West Punjab, N.W.F. Province, Baluchistan, East Punjab and adjoining areas.

The Committee cannot find words strong enough to condemn these in-clean up the road down to Kahla.

From the other two Districts south of Muzaffarabad adjoining the Frontier Province—Poonch and Mirpur—news is still scarce but a military spokesman said today "there is fighting going on in these districts between State Garrisons in isolated pockets and raiders. State forces have, however, been heartened by supplies of arms and equipment dropped by the RIAF. Identifying some of these pockets, a military spokesman mentioned the areas of Rawalketi, Kotli, Poonch and other places.

PRISONERS IDENTIFIED

Prisoners captured by Indian Army forces during the course of their campaign have been identified—some of them as army men belonging to Pakistan and others as ex-army men or those who said they were on leave in Kashmir in winter.

Among the prisoners taken is Khudrat Shah, who said he was a sepoy of the Pakistan Army belonging at the 4|8th Animal Transport Company.

Another prisoner, Abdul Haq, from Rawala near Rawalpindi said he belonged to the Rawalpindi Police Force. Haq had been persuaded, the interrogation revealed, by his local Mullah (religious priest) to join the Kashmir campaign.

The recruits were collected at the camp at Rawala where they were equipped with arms and supplied with food. They were then sent down the road to Srinagar in Government transport.

WHO DIRECTS THEM?

The prisoner also named Maj. Aslam of the Pakistan Army, Maj. Khurshed Anwar, formerly of the Kashmir State forces, who had deserted, and Capt. Rashid, formerly of the INA, amongst his officers directing the Kashmir campaign.

Equipment captured by the Indian forces after routing the raiders contains light and medium machine guns and mortars and rifles.

With the occupation of Uri the Valley of Kashmir is now virtually safe. The only remaining task for Indian forces now is the mopping up of odd parties roaming the countryside.

Attention has thus shifted further west and south-west to the border areas of the Jammu Province and Muzaffarabad, where the situation is described as "grave".

STATE FORCES WITHDRAWN

Jammu city is still safe but a number of small State forces garrison protecting Muzaffarabad, Poonch, Riasi and Mirpur areas in the Jammu Province have been forced to withdraw following large-scale incursions or raiders from across the West Punjab and the Frontier Province.

It is now learnt that the State garrisons at Bagh in the feudatory state of Poonch, Rawalkot, south of Bagh, have succeeded in fighting their way to Poonch town where the State garrison is still in force. Besides these two places, there are also other areas where the State forces are holding out but information from these districts being scanty, their location and progress are not known. The garrisons at Kotli in the Mirpur district, and Nabshera, Jhangar and Mirpur city are also holding out valiantly against the insurgents. All these garrisons are being supplied with ammunition and food by aircraft of the Royal Indian Air Force.

On Thursday the RIAF closely strafed enemy targets in the Kotli area with very successful results in aid of the State garrison.

MOHRA POWER HOUSE

Within ten days from today limited power supply will be restored to the Srinagar Valley.

Engineers who inspected the Mohra Power House, wrecked by the raiders, have reported that power supply can be partially restored in about 10 days.

D. F. KARAKA:

Off My Chest

The discipline expected of a member of Cabinet rank in the English Parliament compelled the resignation of Mr. Hugh Dalton, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The incident in question involved a principle rather than any great disclosure of a secret. Yet the discipline was rigid.

This example could be followed to great effect in India. The laxity with which the secrets of the last Budget were guarded made secrecy almost a farce. Every sub-broker on the Bombay Stock Exchange could have told you the general lines on which that Budget was formed.

It is common knowledge that certain influential parties have been known to operate on the Stock Exchange in a manner which makes one believe they must have had some knowledge of the Secrets of the Budget.

It will be upto Pandit Nehru to see that this laxity is tightened and that breach of discipline is in every case severely dealt with. The trouble is that our Prime Minister is so above these things that he hardly gives the matter a thought.

Heir to a kingdom, Prince Dhruv is unable to endure the malice and envy of his step-mother who is eager that her own flesh and blood should mount the 'gadi.' So the young Prince, in the manner of the royal personages of mythology, seeks peace in a forest, winning there a diadem more precious than an earthly crown.

Shashi Kapoor plays the title role with a wooden naievety. The part of the step-mother is taken by Shanta Rin while Mridula enacts the role of Dhruv's real mother.

SHADES OF "CITY LIGHTS"

Strongly reminiscent of Chaplain's comedy "City Lights", All India Pictures' DOLI lacks the originality of theme its makers claim for it.

A tramp loses his heart to a poor blind girl. To procure the requisite funds for an eye operation, he undergoes great hardship, even taking a prison sentence in his stride. On his release, he discovers that the girl, her sight now restored, fails to recognise in him her benefactor. Not wishing to mar the happiness she has acquired with her marriage to the doctor who had operated on her, he passes from her world without revealing his identity, his love for the girl buried deep in his heart.

This story, full of pathos, has Sulochana Chatterji, Wasti, Jayant and Madhuri as its leading players under the baton of Ojha.

CHARITY SHOW

Tonight, at 9-45 P.M., there will be a special show of UTHO-JAGO in aid of the Mayor's Refugee and Evacuee Relief Fund, to which will go the entire proceeds of the house.

The picture deals with the hackneyed, nevertheless important theme of village uplift, depicting a youth who devotes his life to this cause, thus winning the love of the simple peasants. Jealous of his popularity, the local zamindar opposes his activities by attempting to misrepresent him to the villagers who, however, are not long hood-winked by the scheming villain.

Ashique Hussain plays the part of the selfless youth, with Shazadi as the unspoilt heroine.

WINAYAK'S LAST

In Rajkamal's JEEVAN YATRA, we see the last celluloid effort of the late Winayak.

Collected together in a bus and bound on a pilgrimage, is an assortment of characters from different walks of life. Thus we have a scavenger, a 'mawali' leader, a society snob, her daughter and a philandering pandit. The manner in which their paths cross and their lives converge, forms the interesting pattern of the narrative, which is mainly along humorous lines.

Nayan Tara, Rajkamal's new discovery, plays the leading feminine role in a cast composed of Baburao Pendharkar, Dixit, Shanta Rin and Yakub.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Warners)

Players: Dennis Morgan, Jack Carson, Janis Paige, Martha Vickers, S. Z. Sakall.

Director: David Butler.

Here is a down to earth, low-brow musical comedy, which, with its nonsensical situations, makes no bid for your credulity. It is an absurd, delightful romp all through the way.

Finding their plans for opening a night club thwarted by the business manager of a famous maestro, Steve, a singer, and Jeff, an orchestra leader, proceed to use Vicki, the maestro's grand-daughter, to inveigle the old man into acquiring a taste for swing and jive. The plan succeeds to the extent of the maestro even venturing to finance the show when Elsme the leading lady and her 'sugar-daddy' withdraw their support. However things go awry when the maestro is left stranded by his high-brow wife with only a couple of hundred dollars in their joint account.

In a comedy like this, it is a foregone conclusion that everything will work out well, as it never does in life. So the maestro, despite being locked up by his spouse, escapes in his pyjama suit to conduct the orchestra on the opening night and Steve and Vicki sing themselves to fame, fortune and a happy fade-out.

S. Z. Sakall must take honours for his sparkling maestro, with Florence Bates running him a close second as his one-time Prima Donna wife. Dennis Morgan and Martha Vickers make a charming couple as Steve and Vicki, while Carson and Janis Paige repeat their team work as the unwilling beau and his too-willing girl.

Some pleasant lyrics such as "Through A Thousand Dreams" and "A Night In Rio" are nicely interspersed through the story, with Carmen Cavallaro and his orchestra providing the music.

For a frolic.

GUN FIGHTERS (Columbia)

Players: Randolph Scott, Barbara Britton, Bruce Cabot, Dorothy Hart.

Director: George Wagner.

'Tis said you often can't see the wood for the trees. Well, I for one, could not gather the plot of this film from its action-jammed sequences that followed one another with monotonous regularity.

Two sisters happen to be in love with two men who are enemies, one being the deep-dyed villain, the other, the tough evil-hating hero out to avenge the death of a friend. So there are currents and cross-currents, fights and still more fights, till by the end a lot of bullets enter a lot of foul hearts and our gun-tootin' cowboy flings away his pistol, having rid the South of its bad men—an hour and a half too late!

Some delightful technicolour mountain scenery and robust performances from the leading players, particularly Cabot and Scott, stand out amid the general confusion.

GONE WITH THE WIND (M.G.M.)

Players: Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, (the late) Leslie Howard, Olivia de Havilland.

A sprawling photoplay results from Margaret Mitchell's best-seller of the last decade. It is more or less faithful to the original reactionary tale opposing Negro emancipation and glorifying the Ku Klux Klan and its un-Christian Negro-lynching activities. The beginning, showing the leisurely gracious way of life in the Southern States of America, is in vivid contrast to the Civil War phase and its aftermath, both of which give the story its main background.

The frustration which is the general note of the theme, is well evidenced in the chief character, the wayward egoistical Scarlett O'Hara, a Southern girl of Irish stock, whose guiding principle, Thou Shalt Covet Thy Neighbour's Goods, leads her to steal her sister's suitor, take command of the family estate and lust after her gentle cousin Melanie's husband Ashley—only to discover, at the end of her ruthless career, during which she acquires many of her heart's desires, that she has wasted her affection on Ashley who is but a dreamer and weakling, and through her blind passion for him has lost the love of her own husband Rhett Butler, while with the death of the outwardly docile, delicate Melanie, she realises that "the flaming sword that had protected her from the world, is sheathed for ever".

Olivia de Havilland's Melanie was, for me, the real heroine of the film when I saw it well over eight years ago. The part of Ashley might have been especially written for Leslie Howard, so well did it fit him, while Gable was also ideally cast as Rhett. As for Vivien Leigh, the part, for which her only recommendation was that she was half-Irish, catapulted her to a stardom which, in my opinion, she did not deserve, appearing in moments of dramatic import like a seal on dry land.

The emotional conflicts that form the main story, are overshadowed by the mighty and colourful Civil War background.

Spectacle—garish and grim.

SINBAD THE SAILOR (R.K.O.—Radio)

Players: Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Maureen O'Hara, Anthony Quinn.

Director: Richard Wallace.

From the fumes of a Hollywood scenarist's hashish-filled hookah, arise this film's gaudy but gay visions of the fabulous Sinbad and his ceaseless quest for the buried loot of Alexander the Great.

The sailor finds himself on a ship in clover with other treasure-seekers in the persons of Jamal, a wily Mongolian and the Emir of Daibul who is accompanied by his lady-love, the beautiful Shireen. Arrived at the treasure island where Aga Ahmed awaits his long-lost son, Sinbad assumes the latter's identity with the aid of a locket, once the Prince's which he has come by accidentally. Jamal and the Emir forfeit their lives for their avarice, while Sinbad and Shireen are taught the salutory lesson that love is the finest treasure of all.

The Jamal of Walter Slezak easily steals the picture from the other characters of whom Douglas Fairbanks Jr. imitating the athletic prowess of his late father, appears but a mere ghost of the latter, while Maureen O'Hara is decorative as Shireen and Anthony Quinn makes a suitably sneering villain.

The Oriental gowns and accents are phoney. Even as a fantasy, this picture misfires owing to its being cluttered up with confusing situations.

A Code For Film Advertising

Let Us Learn From American Producers

In a country where film advertising is done in a slipshod manner that often evokes laughter rather than drawing the desired attention, it is worthwhile examining the advertising code as laid down by the Motion Picture Association of America, and reproduced in the October issue of the "Film Industry", the IMPPA journal:—

The purpose of the Advertising Code is to apply to motion picture advertising, publicity and exploitation, within their range, the high principles which the Production Code applies to the content of motion pictures.

The provisions of the Advertising Code shall apply to pressbooks, newspaper, magazine and trade paper advertising, publicity material, trailers, posters, lobby displays and all other outdoor displays, novelty distribution, radio copy and every form of motion picture exploitation.

We urge all motion picture producers, distributors and exhibitors, and their advertising agents, whether affiliated with the Association or not, to adhere to these principles; and for ourselves, we pledge compliance with these principles without reservation.

1. We subscribe to a code of business ethics based upon truth, honesty and integrity. All motion picture advertising shall

ORISSA GOVT. TAKES OVER NILGIRI STATE

BALASORE, Nov. 14 (API): The Indian Dominion Government have taken over the administration of Nilgiri State, in the Eastern Group of States. The District Magistrate of Balasore has been entrusted with the administration under the orders of the Orissa Government, who have been authorised in this behalf by the Dominion Government.

Announcing this in a proclamation, the District Magistrate says that the main reason for the step "is the complete chaos and state of lawlessness which have prevailed in the State for some time past. Grave incidents have occurred clearly indicating the breakdown of the State administration and the inability of the State authorities to maintain law and order. In these circumstances the Dominion Government have felt compelled to take over the administration of the State".

The District Magistrate adds that his first task will be to restore peaceful conditions in the State. He assures the people of a strong, impartial and just administration and says that the grievances of the aboriginal community will, in particular, receive special consideration.

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL

The negotiations between the President of the Nilgiri Praja Mandal, Mr. Kailash Chandra Mahanti, and the ruler of Nilgiri State for full responsible Government have failed.

The ruler has disclaimed in the course of a letter to Mr. Mahanti the assurances, said to have been given by the Chief Secretary of the Eastern States' Union, that Mr. Mahanti would be asked to form a Ministry. The ruler said he had been told by the Chief Secretary that Mr. Mahanti would be one of a Cabinet of three, representing the Praja Mandal, Adibasis and the rest.

Mr. Naba Krishna Chaudhuri, Revenue Minister of Orissa, Mr. N. Senapathi, Revenue Commissioner, arrived here in the early hours of this morning and held important discussions at Circuit House with Mr. Sarangdhardas, President of the Regional Council of Orissa and C. P. States, Mr. Kailash Chandra Mahanti and other Congress leaders.

'We'll Hand Over Junagadh To Provisional Govt. Alone'

Sardar's Reply To Pakistan: Token Referendum Favours Indian Union

(From Our Correspondent)

JUNAGADH, Nov. 13.

"When we withdraw Indian Union Troops from Junagadh, we shall hand over charge of the administration to the Provisional Government," declared Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, Deputy Prime Minister of India, addressing a mammoth meeting held under the auspices of the Junagadh Rajya Praja Mandal in Bahauddin College compound to-day.

Referendum In Three Weeks

Sardar Patel also said that they intended to take a referendum on the question of Junagadh's accession, within two or three weeks.

He warned the Muslims of Junagadh to leave off their 'pranks' and to be faithful to the Indian Union.

Those who wanted to go away to Pakistan could go there with their property, he said.

When the Sardar took an unofficial referendum on the spot, the audience unanimously voted for joining the Indian Union.

RESPONSIBLE GOVT. FOR MANIPUR

SHILLONG, Nov. 13, (A.P.I.): The Indian Dominion Agent in Manipur State, Mr. Debeswar Sarma, in a statement says that the people of Manipur would get responsible Government not later than June 1 next year.

He has the permission of the Governor of Assam, Sir Akbar Hydari, to say this. In view of this, he asks the people to suspend the civil disobedience movement, for some time at any rate, and organise constructive work.

SATYAGRAHA DEPLORED

It's A Game Of Power Politics Inside The State, Says Assam Governor

SHILLONG, Nov. 13, (A.P.I.): The pre-struggle in Manipur is not a struggle by people yearning to be free. The trouble has been created by the arrival of parties scrambling for political dominance," said Sir Akbar Hydari, Assam Governor, addressing a press conference held at Government House when the present political situation in Manipur was discussed.

Maharaja Kumar Priyabrata Singh, Chief Minister of Manipur State, was also present.

Referring to accession of Manipur to the Indian Union the Governor said an agreement was reached between the State and the Union and one of the terms of the agreement was that the introduction of constitutional reforms should be expedited. With that end in view a constitution-making committee composed of the elected representatives of the Congress and members representing the tribal areas was set up.

These representatives were elected by five tahsils. The constitution-making committee would prepare a constitution as early as possible and for that purpose a year's time-limit beginning from July 1, 1947, was set. During the interim period a state council which had replaced the old council was set up with six members. Maharaj Kumar Priyabrata Singh, who is the Chief Minister, is also President of the council. Of the six members two were selected on the recommendation of various tribal bodies and four by the State Congress party.

"A struggle for political dominance has now been launched and the present situation in Manipur is due to the development in power-politics among the general adherents of the State Congress which has obviously split into two on the question of choice of the personnel of the state Council from the allotted share of four. The present so called satyagraha movement is by the minority section of the State Congress against the majority section who form a larger section of the state Council."

DRAFT CONSTITUTION OF REFORMS

At the end of Oct. 1947 on the recommendation of the representatives of the State Council and the Manipur State Congress, the Governor said, His Highness the Maharaja publicly announced that the Draft Constitution which had received his assent would be put into operation within eight months from September 26, 1947 which was the date of His Highness' last Announcement and that the work of the Franchise Committee now sitting, would be finished and the work of preparation of Electoral Rolls and the preparations for elections should be made immediately after which the election would take place.

MAHARAJA FIRM ON HIS DECLARATION

The Governor added: "the Maharaja is standing firmly by the declaration of the reforms he had announced and actually speaking, the present movement is neither against him nor against the Maharajkumar who is the Chairman of the State council.

The Chief Minister giving a detailed account of the recent incidents said the attempt to interfere with the economic life was resented by the people. The Chief Minister also disclosed that in order to scare away the unruly crowd the State Police fired in the air. There was no death nor any injury as the result of firing.

It was explained at the Conference by the Governor that the Assam rifles were kept at Manipur only to guard against external troubles and internal commotions. It was emphasized that the Assam rifles did not fire a single shot on the satyagrahis on any occasion during the recent troubles.

OUTSIDE ELEMENTS CAUSING TROUBLE

The Chief Minister characterised the Press reports that His Highness the Maharaja apprehending trouble had fled from Manipur, as false and malicious. The Maharaja, he added, visited Shillong recently to participate in the Assam Hills and Plains People's Week and to consult the Assam Governor on matters of common interest.

The Chief Minister said the present State Council came in power only in July 1947 and had been busy with the framing of a Democratic Constitution and solving the problem of compensation due to war damages.

The Chief Minister disclosed that a few outside elements were fanning the present movement to oust their rivals from the State Council and gain power for themselves. He said "the situation is under control now and no violent methods have been resorted to."

due to overcrowding!

A hundred times a day, this happens. A hundred times a day, a tram has to go back to the Depot for repairs. And on nearly every occasion, it is overloading which has caused the breakdown.

TRAMS WILL NOT STAND UP TO CONTINUOUS OVERLOADING!

Trams are built to carry 100. For a long time, they have been carrying many more. The extra passengers wedge themselves on the platforms, cling to handrails, even ride on the bumpers.

We cannot replace trams—and every vehicle which goes into the repair shop means that 2200 passengers are deprived of transport.

BEST trams are now owned by the Municipality—that is, they are YOUR trams. Look after your own property!

U. N. ACCEPTS LITTLE ASSEMBLY PLAN

Britain Refuses Use Of Troops In Enforcing Settlement In Palestine

FLUSHING MEADOWS, Nov. 14. (Reuter): The General Assembly last night approved the establishment of the so-called "Little Assembly" by 41 votes to 6.

The "Soviet Group" opposed and the Arab States abstained from voting.

Sir Zafrullah Khan of Pakistan, supporting in the United Nations General Assembly the proposal to establish an Interim Assembly to act when the General Assembly was not in session, appealed to the Soviet and Slav delegates to participate in the work.

'If the attitude of non-participation should continue it would give little chance to the interim committee to justify itself as an experiment," he said.

M Andre Vyshinsky said that the Soviet delegation would take "absolutely no part" in the proposed "Little Assembly" and later added that the "Soviet had no doubt from the beginning, that this is a nullification and undermining of the Security Council.'

Mr. John Foster Dulles of the United States and Sir Hartley Shawcross for Great Britain also appealed to Russia to reconsider her attitude to the interim committee.

ELECTIONS TO TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL

The Philippines and Costa Rica were elected to fill two vacant seats on the United Nations Trusteeship Council to-day after four more ballots had been taken in the General Assembly, making ten in all.

In six previous ballots none of the candidates had received the required majority. The Philippines were elected in the eighth ballot with 41 votes, Costa Rica polling 32, Norway 23 and Siam 15. Siam was eliminated and a ninth ballot taken for the remaining place.

This was inconclusive, Costa Rica getting 33 votes and Norway 24. Norway then withdrew and in the tenth ballot Costa Rica was elected by 46 votes.

PARTITION OF PALESTINE.

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 14. (Reuter): With almost all territorial questions over the partition of Palestine settled, it was apparent to members of the United Nations Sub-Committee on the Holy Land to-day that alternative plans for military control and civilian administration will have to be formulated as a result of Britain's announcement that she will have evacuated the country by August 1, 1948.

In his statement to the Partition Sub-Committee yesterday, Sir Alexander Cadogan British General Assembly delegate made it clear that the United Nations would not have the use of British troops to enforce partition.

"As long as British troops remain in any part of Palestine, they must, of course, maintain law and order in the areas of which they are still in occupation.

"I am instructed however, to make it clear that British troops would not be available as an instrument for the enforcement of a settlement in Palestine against either Arabs or Jews".

In the view of Palestine Sub-Committee members to-day, the British announcement left unsolved the question of how far the presence of non-co-operating British troops in any part of Palestine might obstruct United Nations' efforts to enforce partition.

And it left in doubt the matter of how far the British would dove-tail their administrative withdrawal with the arrival of new United Nations administrative personnel.

On both these points it was reported that Sir Alexander was awaiting instructions from London.

NO AGREEMENT ON JERUSALEM

Before it adjourned last night, the Partition Sub-Committee settled the Galilee Boundary question by compromise, awarding the Jews additional mountainous land West of Safed, North-West Jerusalem. The Committee also awarded a small tongue of land in the extreme North-East Corner of the Arab partition, adjoining Lebanon, to the Jews.

The Sub-Committee was unable to agree on the future of Jerusalem, and the future of the Negeb Area still remained to be decided.

DEBATE ON SOUTH AFRICA POSTPONED

FLUSHING MEADOWS, November 14 (Reuter): Resumption of the Political Committee debate on the India-South Africa dispute, which was due to take place at 4 p m. G.M.T. (9.30 p.m I.S.T. today, has been postponed until the United Nations General Assembly has taken a final vote on the Korean question. It is considered probable that discussion of the India-South Africa dispute will be resumed at Lake Success later.

PRODUCTION DRIVE IN INDIA

Delhi Conference To Concert Measures For Industrial Development

NEW DELHI, Nov. 14. (API). Planning for the future industrial development of India and concerting immediate measures for increasing industrial output up to full existing capacity will be the two most important objects of the forthcoming Industries Ministers Conference meeting in New Delhi on December 6 and 7. The conference will be presided over by India's Industries and Supplies Minister, Dr. Shyma Prasad Mookerjee, and attended by representatives of other ministers of the Government of India and Ministers, technical experts and other representatives of the Governments of the provinces and some important States.

The discussions of the conference will, it is understood, relate to many aspects of industrial planning, short-term as well as long-term and are designed to elicit opinion and information so as to enable the Government of India to formulate their plans. The conference will discuss a number of subjects such as the availability of material and manpower for development, import needs and exchange resources, working of controls, collection of statistics and labour problems in relation to step-up of production.

It is expected that the execution of plans may be taken up in two stages, namely short-term schemes to be completed within the next three years and long-term ones. The Government of India appear to attach great importance to short-term schemes. In this connection they will seek full and accurate information on the facilities possessed by the various provinces and States in power, raw materials and labour, skilled and unskilled. The present situation relating to the plans already approved by the Government of India for the expansion of cotton, textiles, sugar, cement and paper industries will also be reviewed at the conference.

Special interest will attach to the discussions at the conference on the plans already made by the provinces and the States for the development of small-scale and cottage industries. The conference will examine the practical implications of the recommendations of the Asian Conference of the I.L.O. in favour of organising such industries, especially on co-operative and federated lines, and it will also consider whether there is need and scope for an All-India Cottage Industries Board.

CHEATING ACCUSED DISCHARGED

Was Arrested After Having Been "Robbed"

BOMBAY, Friday.

Harkisondas Valjee, the employee of a sharebroker who was arrested by the Palton Road Police Station on the suspicion that he was involved in a case of misappropriation of a sum of Rs. 58,900 belonging to his employer, was ordered to be discharged by Mr. G. K. Rege at the Esplanade Court today, when the police stated that there was no evidence against him, for a prosecution.

On the day of his arrest, Valjee went to the Palton Road Police Station and lodged a complaint that while he was going in a gharry a "mavali" had jumped into the vehicle and removed Rs. 58,900 which he was carrying on his person and which belonged to his employer.

Suspecting that Valjee had lodged a false complaint in order to cover up the misappropriation of the amount entrusted to him, the police countercharged him with cheating and misappropriation.

Mr. K. K. Shah represented the accused and investigations were carried out by the Palton Road Police.

MURDER ACCUSED COMMITTED TO SESSIONS

BOMBAY, Friday.

Dr. John Duke, Rosario D'Souza and Santan D'Souza, who were charged with murder by the city police, were ordered to be committed to the Sessions, by Rao Saheb C. B. Velkar, Presidency Magistrate at the Esplanade Police Court.

The story for the prosecution was that on May 25, the accused went to the room of the first accused, picked up a row with Thomas Sequeira, a sub-tenant of the first accused and threw him out of the window of the house. Consequent on the injuries sustained by him Sequeira died. The prosecution alleged that Inus Centinho and Anthony Fernandes wanted the room for themselves, and had conspired in conjunction with the first accused to create trouble, with the help of the second and third accused and others.

Mr. B D. Wagh who defended Inus Centinho, challenged the prosecution on the ground that the evidence against his client was "thought out", at a later stage. The accused was discharged. Alleged accomplices Fernandes and Balu Thandu were also discharged on similar pleas.

LAWYERS AND LEGISLATION

(From a Correspondent)

THANA, Nov. 12.

The necessity of a change in the attitude of pleaders in respect of legislation hereafter was stressed by Mr. P. M. Lad, I.C.S., the present Legal Remembrancer of the Bombay Government, on the occasion of the Golden Jubilee of the practice of Mr. A. N. Khare, a leading practitioner of the Dahanu Bar.

Mr. Lad who presided on this occasion on the 9th instant at Dahanu, remarked that before India became a free country, the business of the pleaders was mostly confined to the interpretation of the existing laws, but now that India has become a free country after August 15th, it should the duty of the lawyers not to be merely satisfied with the interpretation of laws but also suggest modifications in it.

Mr. Lad also remarked that it was not fair to the accused in a criminal case or to a litigant in a civil case that the laws which decide his fate should be in a language not understood by him. He, therefore, urged legislation in language commonly understood by the parties.

NEW YORK PEPPER PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (UPA).

Black pepper futures were affected today by the steadily tightening spot situation and prices strengthened, although the actual trading remained at a standstill. Unable to locate spot supplies in the actual market, grinders bid nearby futures two cents per pound higher without dislodging any offerings. Spot brokers indicated that consumers who had allowed their inventory positions to run down in anticipation of steamer arrivals, were bidding from 55 cents per pound for pepper or one cent higher. In the shipment market, early December arrivals were quoted around 44-1/2 cents per pound and late December arrivals around 37-1/2 cents per pound.

Spot white Muntok, meanwhile, was held unchanged at 58 cents nominal

WALL STREET MARKET QUIET

Tussle Between Managed Economy And Free Interprise

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.

Further tax selling and nervousness over a possible Congressional action in the matter of counteracting inflationary tendencies in the United States caused the market to lose more ground in modest trading. Well distributed losses resulted covering one point with the industrial average back to around the October low level and rails penetrating the September low level. Besides rails, the pressure was most effective against steels, motors, oils aviations, foods, minings and papers.

The averages were industrials 180.15 and rails 46.85. The market spent the afternoon steadying around low levels in sluggish trading. Rallying attempts were few and far between and quietly petered out in most issues through lack of co-ordinate follow through support. Some observers expain that the principal obstacle to speculative enthusiasm rests in the uncertain near term domestic outlook with the return of Congress implying another tussle between those favouring a managed economy and those for more freedom in enterprise. The market closed barely steady with declines upto a point and half. The rail average is at the lowest ebb since the end of June

CHICAGO GRAINS MARKET FIRM

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.

Early firm tendencies prevailed under the leadership of wheat on commercial buying against additional sales of cash wheat to Government and flour for export together with the gloomy crop prospects as a result of insufficient moisture. France is expected to enter the flour market to be applied against her December allocation of 36,000 tons of wheat equivalent while the production and marketing administration is reported to be asking for offers in the southwest for December shipment. Commodity Credit Corporation wheat purchases yesterday included 600,000 bushels at Minneapolis, 540,000 at Kansas City and 26,000 at Chicago.

Flurry Of Liquidation On N Y. Cotton Exchange

PRICES DECLINE 58 TO 13 POINTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (UPA).

Uncertainty as to how the Administration's foreign aid programme will fare in the forthcoming session of Congress and pause in mill buying combined to slow down activity and impart a much easier trend during today's session of the New York Cotton Exchange. Speculative interests veered to sidelines, expressing the opinion that the market was entitled to the technical setback following a rise of nearly five dollars per bale from the lows existing on Monday, just prior to the issuance of the unexpectedly low Government crop estimate.

After a heavy opening, prices backed and filled nervously but the line of least resistance was on the downside with the final flurry of liquidation plus hedging forcing prices to the day's lowest and net declines of 28 to 37 points. The volume was estimated at around 200,000 bales or about half the total done on Wednesday. Hedge selling was more in evidence particularly around the 33-1/2 cent level for December which technicians regard as the resistance point for the time being.

SOUTHERN SELLING

That Southern holders were more inclined to market around the current levels was seen in the larger volume of spot sales. The turnover at ten Southern markets on Wednesday rose to 62,886 bales, compared with about 47,000 bales last week and nearly 22,000 bales on the same day last year. Repeated expressions of opposition by a leading anti-administration leader in the Senate gave room to more doubt about the final form of foreign aid programme which tended to inject a greater feeling of caution until the debate on the bill actually goes underway next week.

Senator Robert Taft, Republican Policy Committee leader, today said that the Marshall Plan should be held to a point where it will not require a great increase in the present rate of exports. Taft an announced candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination next year, described Truman's plan to put before Congress next week as still "hisy" but Taft said he was more opposed to a return of price or wage controls than to any return of rationing procedures.

Last night of in today's dealings was the optimistic report on the fate of domestic cotton consumption. The New York Exchange estimated the domestic use of all cotton during October at 825,000 bales, or almost 100,000 ahead of the 727,000 bales consumed in September and 931,000 used in October last lear.

After the market is technically consolidated dealers expect a resumption of the trend to a new high ground.

DEATH PENALTY FOR RICE SMUGGLING

Burma Govt.'s Proposed Move

RANGOON, Nov. 14. (Reuter): The Government of Burma is "seriously considering" the imposition of the death penalty on people convicted of rice smuggling. Thakin Tin, Minister of Agriculture, said today.

He told the Press that at least 60,000 to 70,000 tons of Burmese rice had been smuggled out of the country from the Arakan and Tenasserim coasts in the last year. Many foreigners had been engaged in the trade.

It was unofficially stated that the smuggled rice was sent to Eastern India and the East Coast of Malaya.

The Burmese press today reported the arrest of the captain of an ocean-going motorship at the mouth of Rangoon river for an alleged attempt to smuggle more than 700 bags of rice to a Malayan port.
